Understanding Different Wedding Planning Services

The following outlines a variety of services offered by many planners within the UK market. It is not an exhaustive list, but provides an overview of key services. Please visit individual planners' websites to find details and prices.

Full Planning & Management

Following an initial consultation, your planner will work with you to plan your wedding. A timeline or schedule will be produced, along with an outline budget, to which you can both work. He or she will manage all the elements of your wedding you wish, involving you as much as you choose, including finding your venue, short listing suppliers such as stationery, flowers, caterers etc to meet your brief and designing the overall look and feel of the day. Your planner will have regular meetings with you, create a schedule for the day, be available for ideas and advice and attend and coordinate your wedding day, managing all suppliers.

Other Services

On The Day Management

You may choose to arrange everything yourself but decide you would like a professional to manage your day. Following an initial consultation, either face to face or by phone, your planner will work to your schedule to coordinate suppliers and oversee the day.

Final Few Weeks

If you prefer to do your own planning, but would like support for the last few weeks and on the day, many planners offer this service. Following an initial consultation, your planner will visit your venue, communicate with and coordinate all the suppliers you have arranged, tweak your schedule to ensure it flows well and oversee your big day.

Venue Search

Many planners offer a service whereby you provide a brief of the venue you are seeking, stating county, venue type, whether it needs to be licensed, minimum numbers and other requirements, and they will produce a short list of venues which meet these criteria. Prices vary depending whether or not you require the planner to visit the venues, or simply undertake desk research on your behalf.

Supplier search

You may be planning your wedding yourself, but are struggling with finding the perfect DJ or florist? Your planner will take a brief from you and come up with a short list to your specifications.
